ELECTIONS IN CORSICA.

The Loss of a Life or Two Apparently Not

of Much Account.

The election for the council general was going on all over the island of Corsica. The canton of Socca comprises several villages, among others Guagno, noted for its famous mineral springs and also for the turbulence of its people.
The elections took place in each village, and on the morning the presidents of the several bureaux were to meet at Socca
for the formal declaration of the poll.
In consequence of certain disorders that had already occurred, the mayor of Soc-ca issued an edict to the effect that none of the inhabitants of Guagno was to enter the village that day.

The inhabitants of Guagno chose to ignore this order, and 60 of them, all armed, and all angry that their candidate had been defeated, marched upon Socca, headed by their mayor. Two gendarmes—not armed—had been placed at the entrance of the village and warned the advancing troops that they were to come no farther. The mayor of Guagno cried "Fire!" There was a general volley from his followers, and the two gen-darmes fell dead. They both bore excellent characters. One of them had been 24 years in the service, had been proposed for the military medal and leaves a wife and three children.

Such was the first incident in the daily paper of Bastia. It occupied about seven inches of one column. The next day the editor had had time to reflect (or he, too, may possibly have had a significant warning), for in an article three inches long the account was somewhat qualified, and there was this important emendation, "It is not known whether the mayor of Guagno will send in his resignation." That was all. I took in the newspaper regularly for a week, for I was curious to see how the affair would end, but there was nothing more—apparently no inquiry, no prosecution of the offenders.—Contemporary Review.

The Tower of Silence.

The Parsees will not burn or bury their dead, because they consider a dead body impure, and they will not suffer themselves to defile any of the elements.
They therefore expose their corpses to vultures. One sees nothing but the quiet, white-robed procession (white is mourning among the Parsees) following the bier to the Tower of Silence. At the entrance they look their last on the dead, and the corpse bearers—a caste of coolies—carry it within the precincts and lay it down, to be finally disposed of by the vultures which crowd the tower.

Meanwhile, and for three days after, the priests say constant prayers for the departed, for his soul is supposed not to leave the world till the fourth day after death. On the fourth day there is the Uthamna ceremony, when large sums of money are given away in memory of the departed. The liturgy in use is a series of funeral sermons by Zoroaster.

Of superstitions the Parsees have had more than they retain. Connected with burial is the popular conception as to the efficacy of a dog's gaze after death.
Dogs are sacred and supposed to guide the souls of the dead to heaven and to ward off evil spirits; hence it is customary to lead a dog into the chamber of death, that he may look at the corpse before it is carried to the tower.—Ninteenth Century.

Eccentricities in Palaces.

The King of Siam, who, according to late reports, has had a palace constructed which he can submerge in the sea at will and so live under water whenever he chooses, is not the only monarch who has indulged in eccentricities of this sort.

For instance, history has preserved the memory of the ice palace built by the Russian Empress Anna, who published several of her dainty courtiers by compelling them to pass the night in this great chamber of state, where they were almost frozen to death.

The Czar Paul, ancestor of the present Emperor of Russia, constructed a room formed entirely of huge mirrors, where he spent hours walking to and fro in full uniform—a singular taste for the ugliest man in Russia.

One of the native princes of Java cooled his palace by making a stream fall in a cascade over the gateway, and the Indian despot Tipu Sahib placed beside his dinner table a life size figure of a tiger devouring an English officer, the four of the beast and the shrieks of the victim being imitated by hidden machinery.—Harper's Young People.

Triple Pillar Saw Frame.

Among the latest mechanical constructions of note is a triple pillar saw frame, cleverly designed to occupy a space not much wider than an ordinary vertical log frame. In carrying out this plan the cross girder, which carries the saw frame and the crank shaft bearings, is in one piece, the whole being supported on three turned pillars, on which by means of screws connected by suitable gearing they are raised and lowered together. In order to limit the distance between the pillars as much as possible, the connecting rod is attached to the saw frame that is farthest from the crank shaft. There is a bell crank and flywheel at each end of the crank shaft, which enable the machine to work steadily at high speeds without excessive vibration.—New York Sun.

One For the Turk.

One of the stories that drifted out of the plausibility is of the mosque where prayers were said daily at regular intervals for the natives. A pious woman passing acrossed a young Oriental and chatted with him, finishing with a nod toward his prayer house and the remark,
"I hope you go to church every Sunday, like a Christian." "No," was the quick reply, "I go every day, like a Turk"— which must score one for the heathen.—

A Sheffield dressmaker who was fined $40 for overworking her assistants admitted that two girls in her employment began work at 8:30 o'clock on Tuesday morning and worked continuously until 6:30 o'clock Wednesday night—thirty four hours—with an hour and a half for rest.

The Southern Pacific now have track-walkers patrolling the entire line of track from Ashland to Roseburg. Or. These men use velocipedes and each covers a distance of from fifteen to twenty-five miles, arriving at the end of the run about ten minutes ahead of each passenger train.

The teachers attending the Institute are intelligent looking ladies and gentlemen. Nevada public schools will compare favorably with those of any State in the Union, and that the teachers are progressive and abreast of the times is evident to those who note the subjects discussed at the Institute.

E. W. Sommers and Catherine E. Kewley, both of Lovelocks were married last evening at the Phoenix Hotel parlor by Justice J. J. Linn. The bridegroom is a merchant at Lovelocks, and with the bride have been visiting friends here since Saturday last. The happy couple leave shortly for a honeymoon trip to the East.

The Journal is in receipt of Bulletins Nos. 20 and 21 issued by the University of Nevada Agricultural Experiment Station. In one Professor R. H. McDowell treats of potatoes and tobacco and their culture, and in the other Professor F. H. Hillman treats of Nevada weeds. The latter contains excellent illustrations as well as samples of the natural plants and describes the best methods yet discovered for exterminating them.

Dan Cronin and George Keeler, well-known in Carson Valley, left Sheridan last Thursday for California. The Courier says they stopped at Hanlon's cabin in Hope Valley, when hungry, tired and cold and decided to pass the night. They found oatmeal and cornmeal mixed and cooked and ate some of it. They were taken sick immediately and Cronin vomited and was relieved. Keeler suffered intensely for seven hours and then died. The meal contained rat poison.

Howard B. McKissick sent by the N.-C.O. to the Journal a box of apples raised upon Uncle Jake McKissick's Secret Valley ranch. The apples are of the ball-flower variety and are very fine. They were grown at an altitude of not less than five thousand feet in a sunny cove in the mountains. Howard has a hard time of it to save these apples when they are matured. The coons have a liking for and consume them as coons in the Mississippi Valley fifty years ago would consume a small corn field in the timber in "roosen" ear time.

THE SECOND DAY'S SESSION.

An Interesting Series of Instructive Addresses.

The Teachers' Institute Yesterday—Many Fine Papers Read—A Large Attendance.

The second day's session of the Teachers' Institute yesterday was marked by a very generous attendance. The general assembly room of the High School building was crowded both morning and afternoon and the Opera House last evening was comfortably filled. The following additional names of visiting teachers were enrolled:

Gold Hill—Dora N. Lawson.
Wabaska—Ada J. Rawson.
Virginia—Lizzie R. Mudd, Maggie W. Long, Kate T. Nevin and Minnie L. Pyne.

Carson—Lillian E. Swift.
Reno—Persia Lemmon, Estella B. Ede and Hattie Rhodes.
Douglas County—Clara Dientrich and Josie Kenny.
Lyon County—Wm. E. Barney.
Ormsby County—Ella Foley.

MORNING SESSION.

The morning session began at about 9:30 o'clock and was opened by a song by the High School choir.

Miss Mabel French of the Carson public school read a paper on the "Child Mind—How Strengthened," which was generally to the point, original and had the unusual merit of brevity. It was well received and much complimented for its terseness.

Following Miss French, Miss A. Sullivan of the Gold Hill schools, who, by the way, has taught there uninterruptedly thirteen years, addressed the Institute on "Synthetic Method of Teaching Reading." Miss Sullivan spoke extemporaneously, devoting her attention to the illustration of the method of teaching beginners arithmetic advanced by Miss Powell in a book on that subject, and which Miss Sullivan did not claim as at all original with her, but as a system which she had found bore best results in her work.

Mrs. Doten of the Reno High School next conducted a class exercise, showing a method pursued by her in teaching literature, which excited much interest. The class from the High School made a remarkably good showing, and evinced a knowledge of history and a vocabulary to express their individual ideas on the subjects in question that testified to the success of the teacher and her method better than anything else could have done. She had one of the pupils read from history concerning the laying of the corner stone of the Bunker Hill Monument.

A general discussion of the subject from its historical standpoint followed, and when lively interest was awakened in all the historical allusions that might occur in the literature upon the subject, she had one of the pupils recite from one of Emerson's poems upon the laying of the corner stone of Bunker Hill Monument, and closed by a splendid rendition of Webster's famous address upon that occasion by Master Robert Beatty. Mrs. Doten then read an interesting paper on the cultivation of a taste for good reading.

Miss Schallenberger closed the morning session with the reading of a paper upon "Physical Culture," which was decidedly interesting. She discussed the various so-called methods of physical culture—Delsarte, German and Swedish—and deemed all more or less objectionable. She held that almost, if not quite as much injury is done, in general, as good by the rigorous following of any of these methods, unaccompanied by a careful adaptation to the physical needs of each individual child. That an exercise which may be beneficial to one child may, on the contrary, be positively harmful to another, and it becomes at once a very important duty and moral responsibility resting upon the teacher to know and govern the physical exercise demanded by hygienic laws, with regard to the individual requirements of those whom she had in charge.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The afternoon session was opened by a short, but interesting talk by Mrs. Maynard upon evolution and biology.

Miss Echo L. Loder then conducted a primary class exercise in reading, having a number of little ones before her who were taught to recognize words when written on the blackboard by their relative position—being to some extent a practical illustration of the method advocated by Miss Schallenberger in her address at the meeting the day previous.

Prof. J. E. Bray followed with a class exercise in elementary science, which proved both entertaining and instructive.

A diversion from the usual order followed in the nature of an instrumental quartette by the Sunderland family, consisting of violin, piano and two flutes, played by the Misses Annie and Katie and Masters Roy and John Sunderland, respectively. The selection was exquisitely rendered.

By request, Mrs. H. H. Howe of Carson City recited a most charming story of the effects of an old love song in stirring to its depths the human heart. The song was that old favorite "Ben Hope," and the piece was delivered in so sympathetic a manner that the audience was moved likewise.

Prof. C. L. McLane read a paper on "Moral Training in the Public Schools" that was replete with a certain dry and caustic humor which made of a natural unpopular subject an address pronounced by many to be one of the very best delivered during the session.

Prof. W. McN. Miller of the State University closed the afternoon session with a practical demonstration of how science may be taught in every school, district as well as high school, by the improvising of the necessary apparatus from ordinary materials. His address was one of leading interest, from the nature and freshness of the subject and its treatment.

McKissick's Opera House was filled last evening with listeners to the Institute program.

Prof. John E. Bray delivered an address on moral development in the school, which was both eloquently written and delivered.

Following Prof. Bray was a vocal solo by Mrs. F. M. Lee, who sang in excellent voice and in the charming manner for which she is noted. She was warmly endorsed.

Miss Mabel Stanaway also sang and was enthusiastically recalled.

President Jones of the University following read a scholarly paper on secondary education in Germany after which Prof. John Dickinson concluded his address of the previous evening upon Biology.

ABOUT ASSESSMENT WORK.

The Form of the Notice to be Filed With the Recorder.

The Eureka, Sentinel says the new law suspending assessment work for 1893 requires that all persons who desire to secure its benefits shall file notice with the recorder before December 31, 1893. The following form will doubtless be found as good as any.

Probable Accident to L. D. Folsom.

Trainmen on last evening's N.-C.O. brought in word of the disappearance and probable injury near Amodeo of L. D. Folsom, one of Reno's citizens.

Mr. Folsom, it appears, left Amodeo early yesterday morning by private conveyance. As the train was well on its way, the distance was not learned, the badly demolished remains of a buggy were seen in the road. The train was stopped and the passengers went to investigate. The team was found near by tangled in the broken harness. The rig was recognized as the one belonging to Mr. Folsom, but a search in the neighborhood failed to disclose the whereabouts of that gentleman. Up to the time the train departed on its way to Reno Mr. Folsom was not found, but the search for him was continued.

It is hoped the gentleman has escaped injury.

Pay Your Taxes.

Taxpayers should bear in mind that all taxes unpaid at the close of business next Monday, December 4th, will be delinquent and the penalty for delinquency is ten per cent additional. Everybody should endeavor to square accounts with the County Treasurer, whose ex-officio Tax Receiver, as it only increases the burden to let taxes become delinquent. Those who looked up or buried their coin last summer during the panic should unlock their safes or dig up their cans now and help their neighbors to pay their taxes.

IN OLDEN TIMES.

People overlooked the importance of permanently beneficial effects and were satisfied with transient action, but now that it is generally known that Syrup of Figs will permanently cure habitual constipation, well-informed people will not buy other laxatives, which act for a time, but finally injure the system.

Impending Crisis.

Dr. H. H. Hogan will deliver a lecture upon the present political parties and financial condition of our country, at the court-house in Reno on Saturday next, December 2, 1893, at 7 o'clock p. m. Citizens, irrespective of party and ladies are especially invited to attend. Several speakers will be present and address the meeting.

INDIAN SCHOOL CHILDREN.

Nine Washoes Going to the Stewart Institute.

Dick Bender, interpreter for the Washoe Indians, took nine children to the Stewart Institute on yesterday's local train. He brought these children from Sierra Valley and Red Rock. He traveled at his own expense to get these children and he says he had great difficulty in making their parents see that it would be beneficial to the children to educate them. Four of the children are boys and five are girls and their ages range from 6 to 14 years. He got passes for himself and the children from the N.-C.O. and the V. & T. Railroads.

Dick Bender, who is one of the most intelligent Indians in the country, is determined to give the children of his tribe all the advantages afforded by the Indian School for educating them and he is entitled to credit for spending his money in traveling around to persuade the old Indians to let the youngsters attend school.

A Chinaman was found boiling human bodies in a vat near Graceland cemetery, Chicago. Investigation developed the fact that there was a large tank at the place mentioned, with a fireplace under it capable of doing the work indicated. It is said that when a Chinaman dies his countrymen dump his remains into a vat and boil them until they reach a certain consistency and then ship them to China.
